Which Valet Unit Do I need ?

The easiest way to determine what you need is to look at two main factors, the behind the walls design and length of your ducted vacuum pipes and the type of floor finishes you have chosen. One determines the power required and the other determines the type of hose wands and floor tools to deliver that power at the floor or carpet when you clean.

Vacuum Power

In most cases, your Valet expert will certainly measure the length of vacuum pipe required between the position of your Valet vacuum motor and the furthest Vacuum inlet point . This primary measurement determines the Valet Motor required for you. If a house has multi-levels or special features then your Dealer may recommend different models within the range.

Carpets, Tiles and Polished Timber Floors

Your house may have a variety of floor finishes, carpet, tiles and timber. Some surfaces may have high or low usage and may require frequent or careful attention.
